Dear Dean Boller:

Belated but nonetheless sincere thanks for your thoughtful letter about your experience here at the Agency. We were honored to have you participate in our "Program for Deans" and appreciate all that you did to assure the success of the conference. I hope, among other things, that out of the conference will emerge better ways to increase our effectiveness through a larger understanding and support from the academic community.

With best wishes and warm regards,

Sincerely,

Dear Director Webster:

It was an honor and a privilege to participate this past Monday in your Program For Deans.

The approach taken to provide information useful on the university campus will enable me to cooperate more closely with your agency in the academic training of our students in cooperative education opportunities, and in a broad campus sense of the important role of the agency.

There is no question but that the most impressive aspect of my visit was the exceptional caliber of individuals who participated in the program. Every one of them was outstanding.

Please accept my congratulations for this unique program.

Sincerely yours,

Daniel W. Boller, Ph.D.
Assistant Dean
